The tenth annual horse show at Durland's new riding academy in West Sixty-sixth street opened last night under the most unfavorable weather auspices. In spite of the pouring rain, however, the big galleries and the private boxes were well filled with lovers of horsefiesh and well-dressed society. The new academy is a thing of beauty. The ring of tanbark, 200 by 100 feet, is a model of its kind, inasmuch as it equals in size the horse show ring in the Madison Square Garden and is better appointed. The girders of the arched roof were gayly decorated with flags and streamers last night, the band played popular music, the grooms in spickand-span new livery ran about charged with enthusiasm, and the "horsey" individuals were in their element. Up on the top floor there was a sumptuous spread and | Harrow is the second favorite, at odds of many cold bottles for those who wanted to satiate the inner man in celebration of this particular occasion. The band struck up a lively tune and the big doors in the north end of the arena swung back. In pranced four handsome chestnuts, their coats glistening from the rain. They were driven by Robert L. Gerry, who was perched upon the box of a black and marcon coach, with two neat looking grooms behind. Just as the coach was passing through the portals somebody let one of the doors loose. It fell to with a bang and pinned the hind wheels of the vehile against the opposite doorpost so tightly that there was a cracking sound as if the coach had been split in two. There was a cry of alarm from the onlookers as the grooms tumbled to the ground and the chestnuts reared and plunged in vain efforts.

Fortunately nobody was hurt, and Mr. Gerry remained in control of the reins until attendants held the horses firmly. Then it was a case of unharness and the coach was not extricated until hammers and incks had been brought into play. One of the wheels was sprung and much paint was scratched off the body of the coach, but Mr. Gerry was able to show his four to the judges inside of a half hour. Though he had many supporters because of the mishap and also for the reason that his whole turn-out was most picturesque, the judges concluded that the blue ribbon belonged to C. K. G. PHILADELPHIA, March 25 - Coach Woodruff, when seen to-day in reference to a deOPPOSITION TO PRESIDENT EARLE'S

PRICE FOR LIFE MEMBERSHIP. Chief Consul Belding of the State Division L. A. W., Says He Will Vote Against It at the Assembly Meeting at Detroit - Want the Street Sprinkling System Changed.

A decided stand against President Earle's idea of raising money for the L. A. W. by selling life memberships at $10 apiece was taken by the New York State Division Board of Officers on last Saturday night at the first quarterly meeting held at the Grand Union Hotel. Chief Consul Milo M. Belding was in the chair. The subject of the life membership was one of the last discussed. The talk was virtually unanimous in opposition to the idea and it orystallized in the form of the following:

Resolved, That the Board of Officers of the New York State Division, League of American Wheelmen, totally disapprove of the proposed life membership plan and considers that constitutional requirement have not been fulfilled.

In an interview with a reporter of THE Sun vesterday Chief Consul Belding said: "This position was taken for the reason that if the amendment should be made and life members taken in at $10 each we would in a few years have a lot of men pay ing $1 a year and a part of their money would be being spent on others whose money had been used to pay back debts. The idea of life membership is one to raise some ready money which is needed this spring. It is true that when an organization needs a little money right away, it is a great deal better to get the little then than to get more later on. but the ends do not always justify the means and if we took in several thousand life members now their money would be quickly used up, and for ten or twenty years they would have to be treated the same as new members and old ones who were paying in cash. That is what I meant by saying that the money of paying members would have to be used for the benefit of non-paying. It would be hardly fair to the newcomers for us to have a thousand or two deadheads on our lists.

"With regard to our contention that the enactment of such an amendment will not be constitutional, we meant simply that the provisions of the Constitution have not been complied with. The call for the special meeting of the assembly on March 29 at Detroit is dated Feb. 25. The constitution requires that a notice of sixty days must be given preliminary to any such step. In this matter it is not to be understood that this matter it is not to be understood that the division is opposing the national administration. We are in harmony with President Earle. It is a question of policy and we simply take the view I have given you. I myself have already put in a preliminary application for a life membership and will take one if the idea is carried out, but I will go to Detroit instructed to oppose the proposition on the grounds indicated.

Other matters that came up at the meeting were in relation to two bills pending at Albany. One is that of Assemblyman Fowler, prohibiting wheelmen from riding on footpaths in all country districts. Regarding this the following resolutions were adopted. Whereas. There has been an act introduced in the Legislature by Assemblyman Fowler, proubliting bley-de riding on road sidepaths, other than sidewalks which have actually been constructed for the use of

That the Board of Officers of the New York State Division, League of American Wheelmen, in regular meeting assembled, does hereby condemittee proposed law as pernicious and unnecessary, and requests that all friends of the organization, whether members of the Legislature or not, do what they can to prevent this act from becoming a law, and Resolved. That William Thomas be appointed a committee of one, with power to represent the organization at the Legislature, and that he be requested to ascertain the status of the bill and to advise the Executive Committee what could be done to assist in its defeat.

Mr. Thomas is a regular representative of the L. A. W. at Albany. The other matter of legis at on is sufficiently explained by the fol-lowing, which was adopted as a motion:

The Board of Officers of the New York State Division, League of American Wheelmen, in regula meeting assembled, sends greeting to the wheelmen of Fister county, and directs their attention to it fact that Assembly bill No. 365, providing for it transportation of bleveles as baggage by steam boats, is opposed by Assemblyman Snyder, to whose committee the bill is referred. We request Mr. Clum to urge all wheelmen of that district to immediately exert their inducates to induce Mr. Snyder to withdraw his opposition and report the bill. This must be done before Tuesday next.

ing is a better one than has been seen for several seasons.

The long looked for map of cycle paths in the State will be issued by the L. A. W. on May! This is stated by the chief consul to be positive. The map shows in heavy black lines all the existing cycle paths, and in light, dotted lines the paths that are proposed. It is about a feet long by 2% feet deep, but will be folded to pocket size. For fourists it will be an indispensable adjunct to the L. A. W. road maps. The side path maps will not be sold to non-members at any price. The only possible way for a rider, who is not a member of the League, to obtain one will be for him or her to pay $2 and join the organization. The maps will be sent gratis to all members in this State.

It was rumored yesterday that the boon n cycle racing this year would not be con-ined to track events alone, as the American Bicycle Company expects also to encourage the legitimate road races, believing that what is worth doing is worth doing well.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 25 -Regardess of the casual water throughout the fair reens due to the cloudburst of yesterday which flooded the streets of St. Augustine and left the golf course a foot under water, there were some excellent scores made today in the East Coast open tournament. The soil is sandy and the water was soon absorbed after the tide went down, as the grounds are only a few inches (above the high water mark. Of the fifty-six who started this morning in the qualifying round, only forty-four were allowed to compete in the second eighteen holes this afternoon. The prize offered for the best score in the qualifying round was won by Clayton Dixon, who played very consistent golf, doing an 84 in the morning and an 85 in the afternoon. Sixteen good men qualified for the 8t, Augustine cup and there are some very fair players in the consolation division. The links were in a much better condition in the afternoon than they were in the morning, and, providing there is not more rain, the course should be in prime condition in the morning. This is the first one of the East Coast series of tournaments in which W. B. Cheney has failed to turn in the best qualifying score. at Pan-American Exposition.

Interest in athletic competitions on this side of the water will doubtless be increased during the summer by the visit of a team of Irish athletes. Only a few crack performers will come, and it is understood their objective point will be the Irish carnival at the Pan-American Exposition. Dennis Horgan, the shot putter, suggested the proposed invasion | have the details of which are contained in a letter to W. F. Prendergast of this city. The stalwart Horgan is, of course, coming himself and others mentioned are J. Mangan, P. O'Connor, P. Leahy, J. C. Hayes and J.

O'Connor, P. Leahy, J. C. Hayes and J. Chandler.

The published reports that Sanford would not coach Columbia's football team again, and that C. A. Wright of last year's eleven. had received an offer to be head coach, are without foundation. Wright said yesterday that no overtures had been made to him and that he did not expect them. As a matter of fact the football managers have come to no conclusion about the matter. It is desired to reengage Sanford, but a hitch has occurred regarding the salary he is to receive. Prominent football men at the university say that it is probable the matter will be patched up this week and Sanford engaged to begin spring practice at once.

New Haven, March 25—It was stated today by Sanford, Columbia's head football coach, that he intended to reenter Yale at once. He will take up a postgraduate course in the law school. CONTRACT JUMPING. Four of the Clubs Have Induced American League Players to Break Their Signed Pledges -Johnson Says Option Clause Doesn't Count -Brooklyn's New Pitcher. Several National League clubs have been guilty of tempting American League players to jump contracts. It was considered harmful enough when the American League managers induced National League players to sign with them regardless of the option clause in last year's contract, but the practice of the National League club owners in trying to make their former players ignore their signed agreements and jump back is regarded as even more injurious to the welfare of the national game. The officials of the Brooklyn club are on record as having induced Sheckard to sign a new contract with them after he had previously signed and accepted advance money from McGraw's Baltimore club. The Brooklyn officials admit that they tried to get McGinnity, Cross and Jones to break their American League pledges, too, and upon their refusal to do so, damage suits were determined upon. The New York club signed Pitcher Luther Taylor, the deaf mute, after he had signed and accepted advance money from the Cleveland American League after he had signed and accepted advance money from the Cleveland American League ciub. The Cincinnati club signed Outfielder Dick Hariey after he had affixed his signature to a Detroit American League club contract. The St. Louis club induced Second Baseman Dick Padden to break his signed contract with the Chicago American League club. These are indisputable cases of contract jumping and all of them instigated by the National League.

"On the other hand, the Boston American League Club recently signed Outfielder Harry Dolan, who had previously signed a contract for this year with the Chicago National League Club. When President Ban Johnson learned the facts in the case he annulled Dolan's Boston contract and ordered him to play with the Chicago club, which was rightfully entitled to the player's services. Ignoring the option clause in last year's National League contract is not considered dishonorable by the American League men. They contend that the option clause will be thrown out of the courts as soon as the issue is made because the players a year ago were compelled to sign the National League contract under duress. The fact that the Brooklyn club will begin suit for damages against its deserting players has brought a statement from President Johnson to the effect that the American League will defend all such players and will pay costs and damages, if the courts so rule

The Brooklyn club signed a new pitcher named H Eugene McCann yesterday. He jumped from the American League and is considered a corner by Manager Hanlon Incidentally the Brooklyn people announced yesterday that they expected Hugh Jennings to play with the Champions after June t With Jennings in line Hanlon's confidence will be greatly increased. Providing Hugh's arm is all right, it is possible that he may be placed at shortstop, while Dahlen is moved over to third base.

The New York club officials now believe that they have lost Pitchers. Carrick and over to third base.

The New York club officials now believe that they have lost Pitchers Carrick and Mercer and that Pitcher Hawley may leave them, too. Manager Davis has gone out of town to see these three twirlers in order to convince the club officials that new pitching talent is needed. To date the New Yorks have but two pitchers—Taylor, the deaf mute, and Ed Doheny, the erratic left-hander.

The Executive Committee of the Bronx School League held a meeting at Adler School yesterday afternoon for the purpose of perfecting plans for the outdoor season. The most important business transacted was the adoption of the baseball schedule, which follows:

Leahy has the Engussian of teet 43, inches for the running high jump, and Chandler holds the records for three standing jumps, the standing high jump and standing broad jump. The other member of the team, J. C. Hayes, is a distance runner. At the Irish championship last fail he won the four-mile run in 20 minutes 43 1-5 seconds, on a grass course, but he has beaten twenty minutes on a cinder path.

The present arrangement is that every man shall pay his own fare to America, but many athletic enthusinsts on the other side are of the opinion that the Gaelic Athletic Association of Ireland may aid the project financially. It is proposed that the team reach this city the first week in August.
